

Keys

‘Life is a journey, and only you hold the key.’

- It’s a new year, with new possibilities. Imagine holding a key that will unlock the future for you. What does that future look like? For you? For your community? For the world?
- Are there some simple steps you could take today, that would help to unlock the future you dream of?
- Are there new opportunities or ideas that you could open yourself up to this year?
- If you feel there’s a locked door ahead of you, what might be the key to unlocking it?
- Would it help to share your dreams with someone else?