Diocesan Prayer Cycle (DPC)

Bishop Rhiannon writes...

Ambition and Failure

As we travel through Lent and into Easter and beyond I am reminded of two fairly recent books by Bishop Emma Ineson, Bishop of Kensington. One is entitled 'Failure' and the other, 'Ambition'. They both seem apt for this quarter of the Church's year and cover themes most of us wrestle with.

In the book on failure, we are reminded that the Bible above all is a 'story of failure; redeemed failure, forgiven failure, overcome in resurrection and merciful judgment'. Bishop Emma notes that the Bible is full of people who didn't learn from their failures but that even the most spectacular disappointments and public and private failures are not the end of the story when the story is written by God.

I don't know about you, but that encourages me hugely. Not so much that we fail in good company – along with so many good biblical characters, though we do - but more that it's not the end of the story, that when God is involved he can take our wrong turns, pick us up and set us straight on the right path again. The surest sign that God can do this is Easter – the resurrection shows that all the things we get wrong aren't the last word; that the light shines in the darkness and has not been overcome; that we start each morning as a new day with God picking us up and walking alongside us.

Lent is a great time to do that in prayer, thanking God for his endless mercy.

Turning to 'Ambition,' Bishop Emma writes about the success of Jesus' ambition to do the will of the Father, culminating in the story of Easter Sunday. Easter redefines ambition, from seeking personal gain to living courageously for Christ. As we come to celebrate the power of the resurrection, it is a great season to renew our own ambition to follow Jesus and, as the poet Wendell Berry says, to 'practice resurrection.'

So let us pray throughout this quarter that God's mercies and the gift of new life will overflow into the lives of all those we lift up in prayer.
